

Truth Relationships Accountability

Truth... This is our ultimate goal with students. We desire to have authentic relationships with them in order to speak truth into their lives. We believe that students can be world changing followers of Christ. It begins with their knowledge of the truths of Jesus Christ. Right thinking always leads to right living.

Relationships... The saying goes, "truth travels best on road of relationships." Perhaps no other time in history have relationships been so important to a generation. The time spent with a student, laughing, building trust, and loving them like Christ, earns you the right to speak truth into their lives.

Accountability... Who is going to hold a student to the biblical standard of godliness? A peer? A parent? You? Never be afraid to ask the hard and penetrating questions of a student. If you've established a relationship and are speaking truth into their lives, should you not hold them accountable for their actions?
